- provides enhanced capabilities to Pennant’s market-leading IPS software suite and expands customer base

Pennant International Group plc (AIM:PEN), the IPS software and services company, is pleased to announce that it has signed a strategic partnership agreement with Oxford-based Aquila Learning Limited (“Aquila”), a developer of innovative technologies and services for complex training needs, to collaborate on a number of projects, including the integration of the ALaRMS (Aquila Learning and Requirements/Resource/Record) Management System into Pennant’s market-leading IPS software suite (GenS, Analyzer and R4i).

Aquila already has established capabilities within defence organisations and OEMs in the UK and overseas. The new partnership agreement will provide users with additional capabilities and functionality, including an end-to-end S-Series software toolkit.

Commenting on the agreement, Phil Walker, Pennant CEO said: “We are excited to be working with the Aquila team to broaden our S-Suite coverage and extend the software solution with Aquila’s market-leading S6000T product suite. The integration will generate additional synergies within both product and customer base, leveraging Pennant’s 65-year track record and international reputation for providing leading-edge software, services and training solutions in support of Aquila’s continued development.”
